O'BRIEN GUILTY

FACES TEN YEARS IN JAIL

STORY ON PAGE 2

His Fate Sealed—Superior court jury's sealed verdict finds former Mayor James M. O'Brien of Revere guilty of embezzling $13,277.04 from the City of Revere. He was found not guilty on two other embezzlement and two larceny counts.

O'BRIEN IS GUILTY, FACES JAIL TERM

Former Mayor James M. O'Brien of Revere was today found guilty of embezzling $13,277.04 from the City of Revere while he was city treasurer.

The superior court jury, whose verdicts were reached late yesterday and then sealed for today's court, found the former mayor and treasurer not guilty of two other embezzlement counts and not guilty on two counts of larceny.

Judge Lewis H. Goldberg, announced after the verdicts that sentence would be passed on O'Brien next Monday.

This was on motion of Assistant Attorney-General John S. Derham, who prosecuted the case.

Former Mayor O'Brien was convicted under Chapter 266, Section 51 of the General Laws, which reads:

"A county, city or town officer who embezzles or fraudulently converts, or who fraudulently takes or secretes with intent so to do, effects or property which belong to or are in possession of said county, city or town, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than ten years or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars and imprisonment in jail for not not more than two years."

BULLETIN

Motion for a new trial was filed at noon by counsel for former Mayor O'Brien.

The motion, filed with William M. Prendible, clerk of superior court for criminal business, is based on the ground that the verdict of guilty on the embezzlement charge was against the weight of the evidence.

It is expected that Judge Goldberg will hear the motion today.

O'BRIEN PALE, BITES LIPS

When the guilty verdict was pronounced by the jury foreman on the one embezzlement count, a murmur of excitement swept through the courtroom. The general opinion before court convened had been that O'Brien would be found not guilty on all counts.

The former mayor himself, standing in the cage and with hands gripping the rail, bit his lip and swallowed hard as he heard the word "guilty."

His face paled and he sat down suddenly in the chair from which he had risen when the court came in.

His wife and Miss Josephine Farrell, recently ousted as Revere city auditor and formerly O'Brien's secretary when he was treasurer and then mayor, sat together on a rear bench.

WIFE QUIETLY WEEPS

A tear trickled down the cheek of the ex-mayor's wife, but she made no outcry.

Miss Farrell did not weep, but her eyes widened in apparent surprise at the verdict.

As soon as the brief proceedings were completed, O'Brien and one

3d Worcester Baby Is Found Abandoned In Clump of Lilacs

WORCESTER, May 4—Worcester's third unwanted baby in two weeks was found today under a lilac bush in a Granite street front yard, wailing his tiny protests against a chill and rainy world.

Unlike the stories of those other two pathetic human mites, which ended when their little bodies were found lifeless from exposure, this young man's story is just beginning.

It begins with words, "Boy, unknown, hospital number, 269399," written large on a chart tied to an incubator in the Worcester City Hospital.

TEMPERATURE MINUS

They had to put him in an incubator, although he weighs six pounds and an ounce—a pretty large young man to be encased in such a contrivance.

But he was cold, after hours of squalling miserably in the rain, wrapped only in two shoddy, soggy blankets—perhaps all his unhappy mother could afford in the way of tiny garments—with only a worn old shopping bag and the friendly lilac bush, dripping in the chill spring morning, for company.

At the hospital, they couldn't find a clinical thermometer that would register low enough to register his temperature, the ones there showing only as low as 94—4.6 degrees below normal.

LIFE'S BATTLE BEGINS

His tiny, puckered face was blue, his little hands and arms, working feebly, as if to fight off this miserable world which didn't seem to want him any more than he wanted it, were nearly frozen.

But his stubborn vitality kept him alive, defiant, as if in his little head were already budding thoughts of conquering surroundings which so soon were giving him so bitter a battle.

His condition, doctors said, made it plain that he was born without benefit of medical attention.

His wails attracted two workmen on their way to their jobs, Walter Lucas, 29, and Adam Versakis, 50, walking down through the Lucas front yard.

Under the lilac bush they found the little bundle, hurried into the warmth of the house with it, and left "Boy, unknown," in Mrs. Lucas' charge while they called police and an ambulance.

LITVINOFF OUSTER BRINGS CRISIS

MOSCOW, May 4 (AP)—Vyacheslaff Molotoff, Soviet Russia's 49-year-old premier and Joseph Stalin's right-hand man, took over the direction of Soviet foreign affairs today, replacing the veteran Maxim Litvinoff, an important figure at international conferences for nearly 20 years.

Britain to Oust Only Nine Nazis

LONDON, May 4 (AP)—Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare announced in Commons today that nine Nazis had been or would be expelled from Britain, but denied London newspaper reports that the government had decided to expel 50 members of Nazi organizations.

Sir Samuel said that "altogether nine persons will be asked to leave." He added that the "expulsion of six further Germans (in addition to three who already have left) is not in any way connected with the recent expulsion of three British subjects from Germany."

Ickes 'Hopes' Stork Is Heading His Way

WASHINGTON, May 4 (INS)—Secretary of the Interior Ickes blushingly said today he had "hopes" of soon becoming a father. Reporters at his press conference questioned him in connection with numerous recent reports that he and his 26-year-old second wife, the former Jane Dahlman of Milwaukee, Wis., expect a baby sometime this fall. The Secretary replied:

"I have hopes."

Killer That Doctor Saved With Razor Blade Admits Crime

DETROIT, May 4 (AP)—Detroit police said today that two men arrested here after a running gun fight had admitted participation in a Tuesday night Chicago tavern shooting in which a patron was killed and two policemen were wounded.

Lieut. Leo Doyle of the homicide squad said one prisoner, Orville Watson, 29, was wounded in the Chicago shooting and is the man who submitted to a razor blade abdominal operation performed by an unwilling surgeon without anaesthetic.

Watson was taken to Receiving Hospital for observation. Although his wound appeared superficial the removed bullet struck near his spine and he complained of exhaustion after many hours without sleep.

Arrested with Watson was Edward Riley, 37, and a young woman booked as Susanna Smith, 22, until recently a Detroiter. All signed extradition papers and were to be turned over to Chicago detectives today.

Lieut. Doyle said Watson told him he and Riley attempted to hold up a North Side Chicago tavern and that he was wounded.

The police officer quoted Watson as saying he had been drinking heavily and was hazy about the details of the shooting, but that the razor blade operation "hurt plenty" and that the seven-hour automobile ride from Chicago was "terrible."

Doyle said Riley was the man who forced Dr. S. Hirschfield to operate on Watson.

40 Notes to 'Angel' In Blonde's Love Suit

Lyrical outbursts of torrid intensity, composed during the long, cold nights when the aurora borealis danced in the frosty Nova Scotian sky, were bared in Middlesex district court today as preparations went forward to bring to trial what is probably the last breach of promise suit which ever will be heard in Massachusetts.

The lyric effusions, some forty-odd letters, were written, according to papers in the suit, by Stanley E. O'Brien, 44-year-old Yarmouth, N. S., merchant, who is quoted in the suit as having once asserted that his income totaled $250,000 in one year.

They were received, the papers state, by Miss Eleanor K. Jordan, 26-year-old Medford gift-shop owner, blonde and petite.

SEEKS $100,000 BALM

Filed with them is a demand for $100,000—that being the sum sought by Miss Jordan to assuage her grief.

That the suit will probably be the last breach of promise action tried here is obvious in that suits of the sort have been outlawed by legislative enactment. It was filed before the new law went into effect.

Miss Jordan contends, according to the papers, that O'Brien wooed her with letters and gifts, ranging from diamond rings to fur coats, only to refuse at last to wed her. In fact, she intimates that in either 1937, or '38, he married another.

O'Brien's defense is indicated in one hypothetical question directed at the complainant, to wit:

"Is it not true that you, yourself, broke off the engagement?"

LETTERS TO "ANGEL"

As a matter of fact, most of the papers now on file constitute a series of questions, and cross questions—a kind of legal shadow-boxing as attorneys for both sides seek to clarify the issues.

Each of the letters, for instance, starts with a question in about this form:

"Did you, on such and such a date, write to the plaintiff in part as follows?"

And then comes the letter. To each such question O'Brien has given the same answer, to wit:

"At present, I cannot say . . ."

The letters apparently begin in mid-winter, 1934, and continue until mid-winter, 1936. In the filing but little effort is made to keep them in chronological sequence, as each is set forth in an effort to prove a particular point.

In some instances a whole series follow one after another, with intervals but a day or two between. Such a sequence begins December 4, 1934, as follows:

"My Darling Angel Eleanor:

"In the first place, I do love you more today than ever before in all my life. You are my Heaven, the same as I told you yesterday. You mean everything to me.

BEEFSTEAK AND PIES

Gee, honey, I'll never forget how sweet you were yesterday afternoon and how small I was to you—like teasing you about your

ELAINE WILL SUE FOR DIVORCE, MAY NAME HER 'RIVAL'

ELAINE BARRIE BARRYMORE

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Elaine Barrie Barrymore will sue for an absolute divorce within the week.

The 24-year-old actress-wife of John Barrymore, 57, has consistently refused to discuss the blowup which last Saturday night caused her to withdraw from the cast of "My Dear Children," the play in which she and her husband were barn-storming in the West.

Nor has her attitude changed in one iota—as editors of New York papers know to their chagrin.

It happens, however, that the above statement is completely true—as true as was the first real story of their smashup, first printed here last Thursday.

MAY NAME "RIVAL"

She will charge drunkenness, cruelty, and it is just possible that a woman member of the "Dear Children" cast may be named.

It can be stated authoritatively, too, that the suit will not be filed in New York, Reno or in Hot Springs, Ark. She will, however, file an answer in New York to the suit Barrymore instituted for a separation and for an accounting of $300,000 he alleges passed through her hands, the hands of her mother, Mrs. Edna Jacobs, and one David Fisher, identified in the suit as Mrs. Barrymore's "financial adviser."

In answer to the separation suit she will, it can be said, contend that the matter is not within the jurisdiction of the New York courts.

CITE HIS HEAVY DEBTS

Her answer to the suit for an accounting will allege that until last December Barrymore was in the bankruptcy courts in Los Angeles, and that all of his income and expenditures were supervised until then by the court. It will further allege that he hasn't had any such sum as $300,000 for the last several years, and is now deeply in debt—including a debt of $60,000 owed the government for income taxes.

While in New York Mrs. Barrymore's agents have been negotiating a contract which, this summer, may bring her to Cape Cod as a member of the Dennis Players at Hyannis.

At Sioux City last night, Barrymore said:

"Well, there is $300,000 scattered around somewhere and it is best to know where it is."

DENIES FIFTH BRIDAL

The veteran actor, stage and screen Don Juan of his generation, denied the separation suit was a prelude to a fifth marriage.

In the suit filed in New York Barrymore accused his wife of conspiring with her mother and Fisher to "defraud and deceive" him.

He said that in 1935 he had empowered the three defendants to use his funds to purchase property for him but that they had refused to turn over to him "any balance thereof remaining in their possession, and the property purchased and acquired.

TANKER RUNS BLOCKADE; CALL NEW STRIKE PARLEY

Stirred by the sudden departure of thetanker J. C. White from Boston harbor, striking seamen today massed new picket lines around the Standard Oil docks in Everett, scene of Tuesday's strike riot.

While Everett and MDC police, posted throughout a half-mile radius from the docks, watched the renewed picketing activities, state officials made desperate attempts to prevent further trouble.

Union officials, representatives of the oil firms, state police detectives and Everett civic leaders were called to a State House conference by Labor Commissioner James T. Moriarty.

Anger of the strikers was aroused when the tanker White, which pickets had tried to keep crewless, slipped from the harbor under cover of darkness after a day of comparative peace.

WEAR GAS MASKS

Pickets had been withdrawn, many for the purpose of appearing in Malden court because of Tuesday's riot, when new groups of strikebreakers managed to reach the tankers, National Maritime Union leaders charged.

When word of the strikebreakers' success was received, a picket line formed briefly at 5 last night. Six union men and two women, members of the Civil Liberties committee, appeared wearing gas masks and paraded a short distance.

Miss Zara DuPont, 70, of Cambridge, a member of the wealthy Delaware family, led the picket band. Police dissuaded the pickets from marching after a few minutes.

The vote of the Everett aldermen to ask City Solicitor Morris T. Silverstein for a ruling on the proposed suspension of the employment agency license of Jacob Lichter, recruiter of strikebreakers, was harshly criticized by union men today.

Silverstein served Lichter, known to strikers as "Beacon Jack," as his attorney until two days ago.

"How can we expect an unbiased ruling under these circumstances?" asked Samuel E. Angoff, union attorney.

Silverstein asked two days to study the law, and the aldermen postponed action until tomorrow.

HOPE FOR TRUCE

Efforts of all parties for peace were hampered because the strike extends the entire length of the Atlantic coast. Officials agreed today that they could hope, at best, for a truce pending settlement.

In addition to picketing in Everett, where nearly 1000 CIO seamen stood ready to serve, seamen started marching in front of Standard Oil, Esso and Tidewater stations in several Greater Boston cities today.

Strikers also established picket lines in Fall River, where 80 men are awaiting tankers.

Thomas McGowan, business agent of the striking union, said attorneys will be sent by President John L. Lewis of the CIO from Washington to obtain affidavits of alleged police brutality during Tuesday's battle. These will be present to U. S. Attorney General Murphy, he said.

$1,500,000 ASKED FOR NAVY YARD

Naval experts in Washington today urged Congress to spend $1,500,000 at the Charlestown Navy Yard and more than $3,800,000 in other New England bases to keep pace with the naval expansion program.

An ominous note which may speed congressional approval was their testimony at hearings before the House appropriations committee that:

"The schedule of ships' movements requires the availability of these facilities by July 1, 1940."

The recommendations were accomplained by assurances from high naval officials that the Charlestown yard will get contracts for construction of two of the eight destroyers now being planned.

The allotment planned for the Boston yard was subdivided into $725,000 to expand the machine shop—of which $500,000 would be spent the first fiscal year, $125,000 for two shipway cranes; $185,000 for high speed weight-handling equipment; $275,000 for new tools and equipment, and $21,600 for new machine tools for shops under construction.

The largest recommendation was for the submarine base at Newport, R. I.—$2,500,000, of which $1,000,000 is for acquiring land for an air base.

Other stations benefiting are the base at Portsmouth, N. H., where expenditures of $1,250,000 is proposed, and the submarine yard in New London, Ct., allotted $225,000.

City Hall Loses 'Agony Corner'

Mayor Tobin's office is losing its "agony corner," and gaining a shower and dressing room.

The so-called "agony corner" is a little alcove at the office entrance with two doors leading from the outside. There it was in the old days that job seekers got into line waiting for favors.

Now it is being eliminated and the shower and dressing room installed.

Socrates Poison Used In Insurance Killings

PHILADELPHIA, May 4 (AP)—Hemlock poison—the deadly drink quaffed by Socrates, the philosopher, when he was put to death—was identified by police chemists today as one concoction employed by a murder ring which authorities believe may have killed 100 persons for insurance money.

Chemists Edward Burke and Charles Lompert reported traces of the poison, one of the oldest in the world, were found in the body of Pietro Stea, one of the latest exhumed in an investigation that has resulted in the arrest of 14 persons, including a physician.

Dr. H. D. Perlman

The chemists' report followed by only a few hours the arrest of a dapper, 50-year-old physician, Dr. Horace D. Perlman, who was held without bail after Assistant District Attorney Vincent P. McDevitt declared at a hearing he "furnished poison and obtained prospects" for the ring.

PRACTICED 28 YEARS

He was charged with being an accessory to murder.

Dr. Perlman, who has practiced in Philadelphia for 28 years, was taken into custody at his home where detectives also seized medicines and records.

Police Captain James Kelly said the arrest was made on information given by Morris Bolber, known to police as "Louie, the Rabbi" and described by them as one of the "bosses" of the ring. Bolber is charged with murder.

ROMANCE FOR DIANA LASKI

A romance between Oxford debutante Diana Laski, daughter of the noted author, Harold Laski, and a young Harvard instructor, Ian Robin Mathewson, was disclosed today to the Boston Evening American.

Although Diana, now a graduate student at Radcliffe College, complacently denies the truth of a reported engagement, friends of the instructor confirm a likely alliance between the two in the near future. Mutual acquaintances reveal constant companship of the couple at socials and private dinners.

In addition, Diana admits occasional visits of Mathewson, who "is an excellent tennis opponent," while Ian confesses joint ownership of a model A Ford, which we use for travelling to American historical scenes."

"We drove down to Virginia a few weeks ago. You see, we both wish to see as much of the American landscape as possible because we shall probably be in London next fall.

"Diana intends to enter the publishing business there. I've decided to teach in a boys' school," Mathewson said.

The Radcliffe student expressed her preference for the American system of education, but as far as the college across the Common is concerned "I deplore the exclusion of women from the Harvard classes," Diana remarks.

Probe Mystery Death Of School Athlete

Medical Examiner David C. Dow of Cambridge, today ordered an autopsy performed on Hyman Rogert, 26, former Cambridge Latin school four-sport star, who died mysteriously early today eight minutes after his admission to Cambridge City Hospital.

Friends said the former four-letter man, who was considered one of the greatest school athletes ever developed in Greater Boston, had appeared in the best of health yesterday.

Last night, it was learned, Rogert, a playground supervisor in Cambridge, spent the evening with friends, and complained of "not feeling well."

He left the party early, it was said, and went to his home on Windsor street, Cambridge, where he lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rogert.

Early today his parents were awakened by unusual sounds, and found their son had collapsed. They rushed him to the hospital, where he died soon after admitted.

Dr. Dow said he was not satisfied as to the causes of death.

While at Cambridge High and Latin school, Rogert was captain of the basketball team, and starred on the football, baseball and track squads.

ADMITS FORGERY

Confession that she had forged an endorsement on a stolen WPA check for $21.57 "to throw a party for my boy friend" was made in federal court today by Mrs. Josephine Larabee, 28, of Everett, mother of three children.

Self possessed and dressed like a debutante in a medish black hat and a new blue coat, the pretty defendant told U. S. Commissioner Harry N. Guterman that she needed money when she committed the offense.

Her "boy friend," she said, is a numbers pool operator.

When the party ended, she said, he took what cash she had left from the check.

Mrs. Larabee, who is separated from her husband, and whose three children are boarded out, had previously denied trying to pass the check, to which the name of Hyman S. Horowitz had been forged.

When her case was continued on her first appearance before the commissioner, she changed her story, however, and confessed to Secret Service men.

Postponing his finding, Commissioner Guterman again continued the case.

"There's something funny about this case," he remarked. "First you come in with a lawyer, and now you say you don't want one."

Mrs. Larabee explained that she could raise only $5, and the lawyer had asked for $25. She was released in $1000 bond, for appearance Monday.

Hub Girl Weds In Death Valley

THE CASTLE, DEATH VALLEY, Cal., May 4 (AP)—"Wal, now," said Scotty to his mules, "Death Valley has had its first wedding."

"Queenie, my rattlesnake hound, cried during the ceremony," the mystery desert rat remarked, "I kissed the bride."

Joseph Choate, Los Angeles lawyer, and his bride, nee Dorothy Drew of Boston and Los Angeles, remained at the castle overnight and set out on a California honeymoon today.

Scotty's wedding party was one of Death Valley's epochal feasts. The ceremony was featured by Carrie Jacobs Bond, 76-year-old composer, reciting her poem, "The Path of Life."

Armed Holland Man Hunted by Posse

HOLLAND, May 4 (INS)—A searching party of 100 volunteers, 50 CCC workers and 20 state troopers, today continued a hunt for Franklin E. Bennett, 27, who disappeared from his home in Holland with a shotgun after he was questioned by police concerning an automobile accident Sunday. His car knocked down a telegraph pole.

BOY INJURED IN SWING

Seriously hurt when the rope in a swing in his back yard broke, hurling him 15 feet to the ground, Mervin MacLean, 13, of Terrace street, Roxbury, was under treatment at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital today for possible fracture of the spine.

POLES SET FOR 'NO' TO HITLER

WARSAW, May 4 (AP)—The Polish people, certain that Foreign Minister Col. Joseph Beck will answer "no" tomorrow to German demands for Danzig free city and for a 15.5 mile-wide artery across Pomorze (Polish corridor), awaited the speech today without excitement.

The entire nation will gather at 11:15 a. m. (6:15 a. m., Boston time) around its radios to hear Beck address the Sejm (parliament.) The original speech will be broadcast outside Poland by short wave, followed by translations in English, French and German.

Semi-official sources said the address was not expected to close the door on further negotiations but would be "very firm."

Meanwhile, in Polish political quarters the resignation of Soviet Russian Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff was viewed optimistically. Litvinoff's successor, Vyacheslaff Molotoff, was regarded as friendly to the principle of bilateral pacts with Britain, France and Poland.

See 'Mystery' In Soviet Shift

"released" from his duties as commissar of foreign affairs last night.

Silence of Soviet officials as to the significance of Litvinoff's displacement heightened the impression in diplomatic circles of imminent crucial developments. One foreign diplomat said:

"Whatever this means, it is the biggest thing that has happened in Moscow in years."

SHIFT TO HITLER?

But the surprised embassies and legations were wide apart on their interpretations of this latest move of Stalin, coming in the midst of delicate Anglo-Russia negotiations on a new European line-up.

Some diplomats said it portended a shift toward friendlier relations with Germany or at least toward a neutrality which would be welcome to Germany.

Others took the opposite view that Moscow is on the verge of aligning itself so definitely with the nations which oppose further expansion of Hitler's Reich that Molotoff, one of the inner circle of Soviet leadership, has been chosen to conclude the deal.

Soviet newspapers were not helpful. They devoted a few lines to announcement of Litvinoff's displacement, but printed much more about the recent May Day celebrations and other internal issues.

Polish political circles were reported from Warsaw to believe Litvinoff's replacement came as a result of a divergence of views in high Soviet circles over Litvinoff's ideas based on the League of Nations principle.

Litvinoff, now 62, entered the Soviet diplomatic service in 1918 as "Ambassador of the Russian People" in London.

He became assistant commissar of foreign affairs, then acting commissar and finally commissar in 1930.

Britain Wants New Hitler Plea by F. D.

LONDON, May 4 (INS)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is preparing to sound out President Roosevelt on the possibility of a new and concrete non-aggression proposal from the American President to Chancellor Hitler, it was learned today.

Under the plan being visaged, Roosevelt would suggest to Hitler not only that Germany join in a general treaty to insure many nations against military attack, but that Great Britain and France give the Reich separate, specific guarantees they will not commit aggression against Germany.

The scheme on which Roosevelt is to be sounded out, it was learned exclusively by International News Service, embraces all the 31 nations named in the President's peace message rejected by its recipients, Hitler and Premier Mussolini.

The general pact would involve the granting to Germany and Italy by all the enumerated nations of non-aggression pledges which would be exchanged by similar guarantees forthcoming from Germany and Italy.

This spectacular move to head off the danger of war was being prepared in an atmosphere of mounting nervousness, intensified yesterday by the replacement of Maxim M. Litvinov by Premier V. M. Molotov as Soviet foreign commissar, a sensational development that prompted Britain into urgent consultation with France before further steps are taken to bring Russia into the anti-aggression alliance.

Intimations of Chamberlain's intention to attempt another approach to Hitler were made by the premier in speaking in the House of Commons when he said the British government is "ready to consider proposals for the exchange of reciprocal assurances with Germany.

Coal Strike Spread Feared

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—The nation faced a complete stoppage of its soft coal supply today as representatives of bituminous coal miners and operators resumed their deadlocked negotiations in an atmosphere of pessimism.

Unless the conferees agree or the policy committee acts to defer the shutdown, the work stoppage will extend to western Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa.

It would automatically pull 50,000 soft coal miners from the pits tomorrow and an additional 60,000 on Saturday, as temporary agreements expired.

Unless an anthracite contract also is signed by Saturday midnight, CIO President John L. Lewis has threatened to extend the shutdown to the hard coal mines.

This action would throw 100,000 more northern Pennsylvania miners out of work.

SPECIAL RATES TO HUB

Special "port" trains at reduced rates will carry passengers from all parts of New England and Rhode Island to Boston for National Maritime Day, May 21.

"Chart your course right, lad, and you're sure to make port!"

SMOOTH SEAS and a skilfully planned course . . . you could wish nothing better for your family in their voyage through life.

Next best would be a sure hand at the helm to guide them safely through the storms.

They are safe and sound as long as you are in command. And you can keep them secure, even if they should have to go along without you some day, by providing a means to help them chart their course until they can learn to steer the family ship without help.

A John Hancock readjustment income plan provides income sufficient to continue your support to your family through a critical time. It can be arranged to cover your family's income needs for a year or more, either at full scale or in gradually decreasing amounts, and is a practical answer to the problem of keeping your family safely on the course until they can learn to chart their own future.

Because this readjustment period protection is not costly, even a family man of modest earning power can afford it. And no life insurance estate, however extensive, is complete without it. Ask a John Hancock representative to tell you about the readjustment income plan—or write Department R-4 for descriptive booklet.

POLE WAR FATE UP TO BECK

BERLIN, May 4 (AP)—A diplomat with intimate knowledge of the German situation expressed the conviction today that the tone of Polish Foreign Minister Joseph Beck's speech tomorrow would decide whether war fears again would be lifted from Europe for the time being or whether Hitler would take almost immediate action against the Free City of Danzig and Pomorze (the Polish corridor).

If Beck is moderate and leaves the door open for negotiations between Germany and Poland, this source predicted, the specter of war once more will have been banished.

British and Italian diplomacy, it was believed in reliable quarters, were urging Beck to make every concession compatible with national dignity.

The diplomat, however, gave his opinion that if Beck disregarded these warnings and delivers an uncompromising speech, then German troops may be expected to march against Danzig and Pomorze almost immediately.

He said he had authoritative information that German armies in East Prussia were ready for action at any moment.

Nazis meanwhile hailed retirement of Maxim Litvinoff as Soviet Russia's commissar of foreign affairs with enthusiasm.

Scandinavians Meet May 9 to Discuss Offer

COPENHAGEN, May 4 (AP) — The foreign ministers of Sweden, Finland, Norway and Denmark prepared today to consult in Stockholm May 9 on a common answer to the proposals of Adolf Hitler that they accept German non-aggression pledges.

France May Buy More U.S. Planes

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—A French official mission in this country may buy additional airplane engines, military authorities said today, to supplement previous orders for 500 American planes.

The new mission called on Louis Johnson, Assistant Secretary of War, earlier this week and War Department officials announced it was here "with a view to the possible purchase of munitions."

Goering and Wife Return to Italy

BERLIN, May 4 (AP)—Field Marshal Herman Wilhelm Goering and Mrs. Goering left today to resume their vacation at San Remo, Italy, which they visited for several weeks before going to Libya and then returning to Germany for the Hitler birthday celebration April 20 and the session of the Reichstag last Friday.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Nazi Press Gleeful At Litvinoff Ouster

BERLIN, May 4 (AP)—The German evening press today made the western powers the butt of their jokes over the resignation of Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff.

"At the very moment that the Britos were looking expectantly into the pot in which their alliance plan is boiling there was a big crash," said Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper, 'Der Angriff.

"Fat Comrade Foreign Commissar Litvinoff-Finckelstein exploded in Moscow. The news struck the (British) Foreign Office like a bomb."

"The noble sirs in London, Paris, Warsaw and Washington are having worries upon worries," said Nachtausgabe. "Their worries are not our worries. They are exclusively the worries of democracies and of Bolshevism."

Litvinoff's Ouster Laid to 'Inaction'

LONDON, May 4 (INS) — The London Daily Express reported from Moscow today that Defense Commissar Klement E. Voroshilov demanded the immediate dismissal of former Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff on grounds of "inaction and indecisiveness."

The paper said "Litvinoff already has moved from the luxurious palace in which he lived as foreign commissar to a "three-room apartment in a Moscow tenement building."

Colt Fires Village

TOKYO, May 4 (AP)—A colt substituted for Mrs. O'Leary's cow of the 1871 Chicago fire, Domei, Japanese news agency, reported today in an account of a disastrous fire in a village near Aomori.

The colt kicked over a candle and fired the stable in the village. High winds spread the flames and 116 houses were burned.

J. PAUL BATHELT
Scorns $15 a Month

Slayer Fights His Wife's Will

John Paul Bathelt, serving a life term in state prison for the slaying of a fellow race track follower, Charles Morris, battled today to break the will of his wealthy wife, who left him $15 a month to buy "necessities and luxuries."

Through Atty. Eugene B. Winett, the widower filed an objection in New York against the probate of the will disposing of an estimated $250,000, on the ground that "undue influence" had been exercised on the testatrix by Ragnar Landahl and others.

Landahl was bequeathed a life income from one-half the residuary estate, the other half going to the Swedish Hospital in Brooklyn.

U. S., Britain Talk Cotton Barter

LONDON, May 4 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced today negotiations had been opened between the United States and Great Britain "for exchange of certain raw materials required as strategic reserves in both countries."

Although the prime minister declined to specify the materials involved, it was understood the United States proposed to exchange cotton and wheat for rubber and tin from Britain.

New Birth Control Campaign Launched

The Massachusetts Birth Control League, reorganized as the Mothers' Health Council in the face of a legal ban, today launched a state-wide program after charges by international authorities that the Bay State's medicine "is still in the category of the Middle Ages.

A dinner was arranged at the City Club to formulate new plans of procedure to replace that which Dr. Lucille Lord Heinstein, Flora Rand and Pamelia Ferris were forced to halt. Their convictions on charges of birth control activities were upheld by the Massachusetts and United States Supreme Courts.

Presiding at the dinner was Canon Cornelius P. Trowbridge of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul. Others at the head table were Bishop William Appleton Lawrence, Dr. Hannah M. Stone, Dr. E. Granville Crabtree, Mrs. Eva Whiting White, Dr. Abraham Stone, Mrs. Leslie D. Hawkridge, Mrs. J. Gardner Bradley, Dr. Douglas A. Thom, Dr. Woodbridge E. Morris and Dr. Benjamin S. Wood.

Mrs. Cornelia James Cannon, president of the council, in her opening remarks hailed the large gathering as evidence of renewed support "for our more fundamental liberties—liberties which at present Massachusetts is denied."

"MEDICAL RIGHT"

"We are inspired to learn through recent newspaper announcements that some of our leading physicians of the state have organized in defense of the medical right to hold the health and well being of their patients as their first and major concern," she said.

Mrs. Alva Myrdal of Sweden, famous through Europe for her birth control ideas and vice-president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, was a guest, introducing a new slogan from Sweden: "Four Kids in Every Family".

Morris L. Ernst, New York attorney, pointed the way for the Massachusetts birth control sponsors in declaring the unfavorable decision of the State Supreme Court on mothers' health clinics "only a case argued on abstract questions."

"LIFE-DEATH" ISSUE

He counseled the local group to bring a concrete "life-and-death" issue before the court.

Quoting the late Cardinal Hayes as openly advocating limitation of families in destitute homes, Ernst said many clerics have turned face about in their opposition to birth control. These now favor the "rhythm method of control in family relationships, he said.

Relieve Kidney-Bladder Passages
WITHOUT DIURETIC PILLS

Rest better at night.

One of the oldest, best known remedies in all the world for urinary disturbances, is Santal Midy, a capsule rich in East Indian sandalwood oil. Santal Midy helps to dilute excess acidity of the urine, which is the frequent cause of many kidney-bladder irritations.

Santal Midy Capsules aid in making the urine bland, and this helps to soothe the sensitive membranes. Don't burden your system with strong diuretic pills. Let soothing Santal Midy aid you—they cost a bit more, but are well worth it. Insist on real Santal Midy Capsules at your druggist.

Spellman Takes Hearts Of Parishioners With Him

Here is one prophet who is with honor in his own country . . .
No matter where Archbishop Spellman ever may go, the hearts of his parishioners in Newton will go with him. Here, in this concluding installment of his life story, is told the story of his work there, and of the esteem in which his own people hold him.

By JACK CONWAY

Copyright, 1939, by the Boston Evening American, Inc.

Though Archbishop Spellman's long and notable career here as Auxiliary Bishop of Boston has been a splendid success, because of his untiring labors and sterling qualities, he will be remembered for his fellow priests as pastor of a large and flourishing parish.

ankles getting fat, which is not [illegible] . . ."

The next in this series is [illegible] Jan. 1, 1936, a few weeks later and states in part:

"My darling angel, what am I going to do tonight without you? I really feel lost, but one week from Tuesday, I'll be leaving here to see you, darling.

"Oh, precious, I do wish I were going home to have you waiting there for me with a cute little dress. And I can just picture you frying beefsteak and making puss. God bless you.

"Would you love to be in a little house all your own waiting for Stan to come home to supper? Don't forget to let me know in your next letter, will you, precious lamb?

"Now, darling, do write often, as next to you are your letters. I will be thinking about you always. Just keep as sweet as you are—you are perfect, darling, in my estimation, always.

PITY FOR "DARLING"

"Now, my darling, I will write Sunday night. God bless my darling—all my true love—

"Stan."

Two days pass and there [illegible]

"My precious darling, the old boat pulled away and now you are sailing away from me across the ocean, and, oh darling I really pitied you tonight when you said: 'Stan, I am frightened.'

"I never in all my life felt so badly at having you leave me, dear. You have grown to be a part of me, and, darling, I am looking forward to the day for you to be my darling little wife.

"I have your Xmas card before me. Darling, it was so sweet.

"The joy I have known since you have grown to mean so much to me! Oh, how true those words are, darling. You are truly a wonderful little sweetheart, and what a darling little wife you are going to be!

"Oh, precious lamb, words fail me when I try to tell you how very much I miss you. Goodnight. God bless you—

"Stan."

How she happened to be leaving [illegible] at this moment is unexplained in view of the January 5 letter, except that she might have made a [illegible] midwinter journey to the Northland.

CALLS HER "100 PER CENT"

The next is dated January 10 and [illegible]

"My dear Eleanor:

"Why do I always hold you up as hundred per cent girl? I just met a Miss Allison in Halifax, who is a music teacher at Mount Allison University. And really, Eleanor, I always look at their feet, hands and teeth, complexion and hair—and, as yet, in my traveling around I have never met anybody in your class, or who measures up to my ideals.

"Eleanor, I realize more every day that you are priceless, and each day you grow nearer and dearer to Stan.

"Well, my darling little wife-to-be, I hope and trust you will always feel that way. If it did not make me so lonesome afterward, I would call you up tonight from St. John, but, as you say, I also will feel worse afterward. Well, darling be good.

"Stan . . . x x."

The double "x's" are, presumably, the conventional symbol for kisses.

Two days later, January 12 "the muse still swayed him, as follows:

"Well, darling, oh, precious, wait until we get started on our trip—no snow, no ice, sunshine, happiness and each other forever! What could be more desirable? God bless you . . .

"Well, darling, be good, keep happy, write real often. God bless my darling little precious—all my love—

"Stan."

SENDS "ALL HIS LOVE"

Again two days fly by, and now

"My darling, oh, Eleanor, you are such a perfect peach. Do not worry about what you think I try to do for you. You are worth everything in this whole world to me, Eleanor. I appreciate and love you so much.

"I think of you all the time, always trying to picture you. Last night I watched the fire and the little red light, and thought about the little home we are going to have, and about the good times in store for us. God bless my baby girl, always and I know He will. All my love—

"Stan."

[illegible] departed aboard for a couple of weeks, as the letter is dated February 4, and [illegible] two on that date

"Gee, Eleanor, when I get sick or want to see someone I always want you. You are so sweet, dearie. I know you will make the most adorable wife in the world, if treated right. God bless you.

SUNSHINE OF LIFE

"Eleanor, this is a peach of a day for not cold, just lovely out. Just think, a week ago tonight in Hull every time I see you, I have such a wonderful time, thanks to you. Darling, you are the sunshine in my life, Eleanor Jordan, and I do want to make you so happy and always keep you that way. I'll try hard.

"Goodbye my darling, and always remember the one who is always thinking of you, and loving you with all of his heart and soul.

"Yours, Stan."

[illegible] of several [illegible]

"Eleanor, I have a wonderful boat. I'll send you snapshots of it. It really is a peach. I do wish you could have a ride.

"I have a little cold today so I do not feel extra good. Oh, darling, I know I need you to take care of me. Would you be real kind and nurse me enough to eat and would you tuck me in my little nest every night, and kiss me three times always.

"Eleanor, always stay as sweet as you are. All my love—

"Stan."

TELLS HER BUY COAT

[illegible] was filed [illegible] dated

"November 1, 1935.

"Darling little wife:

"You know you mean life itself to me and I will be so happy the day I am married to you and then I will belong to you for keeps and you to me, darling angel of mine.

"Oh, precious, I feel so lonely tonight. All I can see before me is your face all bundled up in your fur coat and as you looked when you had on your new fur coat in the Strand Monday night. God bless you.

"Well I feel sick, so I will say good night.

"God bless you.

"STAN."

[illegible]

"November 7, 1935.

"Well darling:

"Now look, dear, why not go and look at those lap minks at Shep's. They are really beautiful, and if you would rather have one last year coat back to Mr. [illegible] and tell him to give you the money back as you do not like the coat.

"Angel I do want you to be satisfied. Elinor you look so wonderful in all your clothes. Blessed little wife, aren't you, Elinor? I do miss you so much.

JOINED CHOIR PRACTICE

"Well darling I went to church, stayed for choir practice and here I am upon my room. I have a fire it is really cold. I am listening to Major Bowes. I do wonder if you are listening.

"Oh, darling if you could or would come in through that door right now I would get right down on my knees and thank God.

"You blessed comfort. I am a good mind to call you on the phone but if I heard your voice tonight I would feel terrible. I do miss you so much dear.

"Let me know what you think about the coat but go and see the Lapin minks at [illegible] of course, your choice. Coat is much more dressy and really looks wonderful on you. Of course being as beautiful as you are you always look a real lady. Good night dear.

"All my love STAN."

[illegible]

December 5, 1935.

"Dearie, Angel of Mine

"Angel, I am looking forward to January more tonight than ever before. God bless you. Can you imagine belonging to each other. Oh, Elinor, I do love you, darling, always beyond any doubt.

"All my true blue love,

"STAN."

"December 16, 1935.

"Bless your heart, Elinor

"Darling, this is our busy month, but just wait until I get my darling little wife down in Florida next month. Oh, precious, I just can't wait, Elinor, to be with you.

"I wish you would walk into my little office right now. I bet you would say, 'Well, this is the greatest homecoming reception that I have ever received.' God bless my baby girl.

"Well, angel, this is just a note, and I will write again tomorrow, dear. Just read between lines, because they are full of love for you always.

"All my love,

"STAN."

'WORTH MILLIONS' TO HIM

"December 20, 1935.

"My darling little precious

"Now, darling, I love my little bunch of honey so much that when I think of seeing you, I feel so supremely happy. My little wife-to-be in a very short time. God bless her and keep her.

"God bless you, darling. Be good and keep happy.

"All my love,

"Stan."

"February 6, 1936

"My darling:

"Darling, your photo is perfect and I have shown it to several and they all say what an adorable looking girl. God bless you. If they knew you like I do, they would then realize your worth, and I think, Mike, you are worth millions to me, not dollars and cents.

"Gee, Mike, I hope to see you next week. Now, darling, you know how I feel toward you and if you feel the same toward Stan, wire and I will be right up.

"No news, Elinor, only it is a little[illegible] night. I do hope you will be able to keep warm. Wouldn't I love to be able to cuddle you right up in my arms.

"Bless her, bless her, bless her. Now, Mike, wink one eye.

"I can see you now with both eyes winking. Oh, precious, I do love you so much. Well, darling, I must close with all my true blue love to the best little girl in the world.

Your Stan"

to be more wonderful seeing you this afternoon than ever before

"10 BILLION COMFORTS"

"My little darling, sweetheart and best in all the world, and already, Elinor, I am really dreading for tomorrow to come when I have to leave you again. Oh, Elinor, I do love you so much more than ever before, and, little girl, I want you to realize it more than ever before, darling angel of mine.

"Oh, what a comfort, darling not only in 100 ways but 10,000,000,000 ways, precious.

I adore you dear. I have always thought you as being the most wonderful person in the whole world, precious. Excuse the pen as I simply cannot write with it. Now be a good, true blue little darling always. All my love, respect to little Elinor O'Brien

"Always your Stan"

LONELY IN HOTEL

[illegible]

"Well, my little precious, I was tempted to call you up one night and ask you to come down as being sick in a hotel all alone is certainly no fun and I was so desperately lonesome, nobody to talk with.

Living at a hotel is no fun in any way. I realize it more every day and I will be so very happy to get away from it all and be settled down in a cute, little home with Elinor. God bless you. Always and forever

"STAN"

March 6, 1936

"My Darling

"We are having real spring weather, rain and fog so that is certainly real weather for colds, blue and so forth. I will be so happy if I ever stop blowing my nose.

"Darling, I need you to take care of me, and I really think Elinor needs Stan to sleep with her and keep her all covered up, cheer her up when she feels blue, love her and cherish her.

"Oh, darling, I must stop because writing this afternoon makes me so blue, especially today. Gee Elinor, wouldn't I love to see you today. Don't forget I want to be your comfort as well as your husband and lover, sweetheart and better half. God bless you."

"Yours

"STAN"

MORE THAN LOVE"

"March 13, 1936

"Well, darling, I am enclosing two dollars for you. Buy yourself six roses. God bless you. Each time you look at them or smell of them, think of Stan, do not forget.

"Oh, darling, I had the most wonderful dream last night Elinor. I don't love you, I truly worship you and idolize you. Saying 'love' is putting it mild I ache all over. I want to see you so very much.

God bless you, I shall probably see you before this letter. All, all, this true blue love to my Elinor.

"Your Stan"

April 1 1936

Well darling

"Darling I love you so very much today. If I could walk on the water I would be tempted to stroll walking right now. I do not see how I can wait a whole week to see you, darling.

"Now Elinor don't try to give up Tuesday you call the Statler Wednesday morning at 9:30 of course. I am not going getting a pass to Bermuda but if they should send it I would be up on Tuesday a boat so do not make the arrangements for Wednesday until you call up.

TRUE BLUE WIFE

"Well, at any rate I will be leaving one week from tonight to see my blessed angel of love and everything else that is good and pure. God bless her. I still have a little cold yet.

"I will be so good when it flies away. Well, darling, keep happy. Remember, my all in all depends on you. All my love. Your very own.

"STAN X"

"Well, my little darling

"Angel, one week from tonight, we will listen to Major Bowes together. Bless her, what wouldn't I give to have her here tonight, my very own true blue little wife. God bless her always and forever.

"Eleanor Jordan, in all my trips I have never looked forward to seeing you with quite as much pleasure. Oh, Mike, you are so wonderful and pretty in every way and style. No wonder everybody looks at you, when you try on suits, hats, shoes, etc. I can just picture you as you walk out to church.

"You always look so cute and span. I wore my new gray suit, hat and topcoat, they fit perfect, but nobody told me how nice I looked. I only want you to admire me darling, and you always say such wonderful things, and I do know that you mean every word of it.

"Well, darling, I will write you a real long letter, Tuesday, and Saturday you come in early to meet me. Do not forget. Be there at 9:30 a m. All my true, blue love.

"STAN

April 23, 1936

"My blessed darling

"How are you, today. I hope you feel better than I do. I have my old cold back again and truly, I feel punk.

"And you know how much good the Bermuda trip did me. Oh, Mike, I do love you so much and I think of you the first thing in the morning. I always say my little prayer for you the last thing at night.

KISSES HER PICTURE

I always peek at that picture of you and kiss it. Bless her, you are the very sweetest girl in all the world. Thank God you always have me, and to me darling, nobody this side of Heaven compares with you.

"You always look so cute sweet, pure, and words fail to express my admiration for you. My new car arrived yesterday and she is a peach, all silver trimmed, very sporty looking, and I like it very much.

"Had it all smoothed and it looks like a million dollars. You will like it, I know. Well, dear, no letter from you this morning. I do hope it comes along tonight. All my true, blue love.

"Stan"

"April 24, 1936

"Angel

"Have you had the furs fastened together as yet? I hope so, and after you do I want you to have a snap taken for your lonesome little husband who is just waiting to make you, I hope, the very happiest little girl in all the world.

"I expect to be the happiest man. Just think, Eleanor, living with you, to have and to hold for always, and forever, angel. I feel so differently toward you now. You belong to me.

HAS BIG COLD SORE

"Well, my blessed, and bigger, and better half, always, I am going to say bye bye. Till next Sunday, darling. God bless you always and forever.

"Your Stan"

"May 1 1936

My Blessed Angel

How is my precious little wife today? Darling, do not laugh please but I have a big cold sore right on the end and side of my nose, and last night, I worried about the looks of it, so I soaked it in boiling water and I wish you could see me today.

"I stayed right inside on my little office. Really, I looked as though I had been on a bust for a week. All my true, blue love to you forever.

"Your, "STAN"

May 12, 1936

My dear

"Gee, just thinking about seeing you, I can hardly wait. I just want to fly to you, darling. Did you get your new hat yet? I want you to look real swell when I see you.

Bless your sweet old heart, I adore you, darling, and love even your toe-nails.

Dear, I was so sorry I did not remember your mother with something for mother's day. I am so glad you did. You always do the right thing.

"My true blue love to one true sweetheart, my little wife Elinor.

"Your, "Stan"

SWEET OLD HEART

May 27, 1936

Well, darling

"Just think in less than one week we will be together, bless your sweet, old heart. I do hope your cold is much better.

"Elinor, you must be very careful, or someday you will get a real bad cold that will hold on to you for a long time. So please take my advice and be very careful. Darling, remember to whom you belong, precious.

"Are you going to be real glad to see Stan, Saturday? I know you will be darling and I will be so happy to be with you.

"Bless your heart, Eleanor, do you know I will be more pleased to see you this time than ever before and you know why. I have a little red light burning and it is saying, 'Why' is Elinor.'

"I said she would be here two weeks from tonight. Bless her sweet, old heart.

"Well, darling, I guess I will take a good hot bath and crawl in my little low bed and dream of you. Wouldn't I love to kiss you good night, darling; oh, well, Elinor, such is life. God bless you. Take care of that cold. All my true blue love.

"Stan"

June 21, 1936

"Well, darling

"Got blessed lil' angel your very sweet letter. I just finished reading and really it just seemed to roll a very heavy load away.

Now darling of my heart, the fellow that owns that piece of land we were looking at, is going to give Mansfield Ross the chap who looked after my boat, a price on it, tomorrow, because if I want to him to buy it he won't want a month extra, period. Mike I am going to try and buy the whole hill whereas we thought the corner lot would be ok.

DON'T LIKE RELATIVES

Then we could have a tennis court, two or three holes of golf and then, any undesirables could not build right along side.

Well, darling, I'll write you tomorrow. God bless my baby girl, always. Do not get lone and darling, thanks a million, for that sweet letter this morning. All my true blue [illegible]

Easy Money Now Thing of Past

The building of new personal fortunes in the United States is lagging as business marks time in the subnormal zone.

A veteran financier in reviewing the scene remarked that the easy money of the 1920's is a thing of the past.

However when pressed for a forecast as to what types of individuals would accumulate new fortunes in the coming decades this individual, who turned his own imagination and energy into a sizable estate answered:

"In the future the big money won't be in stock trading, but will be made by individuals who save some of their income and use their savings for outright permanent investments in common shares of exceptionally well managed companies in industries that are progressing."

As a response to confiscatory taxes on real property owners in various parts of the country have in recent years been re-enacting Chief Justice Marshall's dictum that "the power to tax is the power to destroy." Unable to make a profit on certain types of real estate after paying taxes, they have been tearing down improvements. In some cities where buildings have thus been razed parking lots have been developed.

There is similar destruction here and there of parts of large estates. The complaint is widespread that taxing authorities in order to get sufficient tax receipts have arbitrarily been overvaluing the landed estates of the wealthy fixing the assessed valuation far above the price which transfers of such holdings have been taking place. In Cincinnati, Oregon taxing authorities have realistically revised assessments downward even though this necessitated raising the tax rate.

As a matter of fact, if current peak rates on incomes and on inheritances continue, it is unlikely that wealthy men will have either the desire or the means to create lavish residences on the grand scale of the pre-depression era.

One well informed financier said that the totalitarian powers, in ruthlessly confiscating wealth though capital levies, had at least been candid. Over here, he said, there is a tendency to camouflage the situation through nominally penalizing persons to hold on to their wealth, though in view of the high taxes they had in effect become mere custodians of property for government.

Federal income taxes run as high as 79 per cent and numerous states also take an income tax. According to this a man in New York may nominally have an income of $1,000,000, he has only $966,000 after taxes. Moreover, at death, if his estate is subject to the maximum, death duties, 70 per cent is clipped off by the Federal government, less credits for state death duties running up to 20 per cent. Thus only a fragment is passed on to his heirs.

This seems pretty much like a capital levy under a more genial name.

When the income of wealthy persons is taken in taxes, they are not the only ones affected. Any such recipients of income normally act as redistributors, paying most of it out ultimately in wages for services and materials.

Extra Costs Push B. and M. Into Red

On the basis of "normal" operating results the Boston & Maine Railroad broke about even in March . . However, the brigadoon of additional expense probably will push final figures for the month onto the red side of the ledger . . .

Despite some unfavorable events, snowstorms and a wreck March results would have closely approximated the management's estimate . . . Which was a deficit of $xxxx . . . This figure was included in the forecast of a $939,000 surplus after charges for the year . . . Made on the basis of an estimated 12 per cent increase in gross for the year . . . While April traffic reports so far are satisfactory slightly above the anticipated year's average some moderation of full 1939 returns is taking place in State Street circles . . .

ANOTHER . . . Possible drain on net results for the B & M is the bituminous coal strike . . . And not from a traffic standpoint as much as from the angle of operating costs . . . Bituminous shipments are already down markedly but anthracite traffic has picked up considerably, due to both substitution for soft coal and fear of a shut down in anthracite fields.

However if it is necessary to buy from western bituminous operators per ton fuel costs for the road will jump $2 to $3 a ton. And because to such supplies a priority will lack a sizable number of unexpected additional costs of between $75,000 and $85,000 encountered in March . . .

STATION GAIN . . . Is reported by New England Telephone Co tabs for both April and the first four months of the year . . . While some discounting of the good showing must be allowed, on the basis April is traditionally a month of good gains, the showing is most encouraging . . . The figure of 5654 phones gained is better appreciated when compared with the 1938 increase of 3439 . . . The same thought applies to the four month figures of 15,244 and 5667 respectively .

N. E. BUSINESS . . . Results are not showing the decline pessimistic prophets deduced would take place from the so-called bear market signal given a month or so . . . Of late we have covered a miscellaneous assortment of returns potatoes, wool, textiles, shoes, rail receipts and telephone installations . . . All point to some degree of cheer . . . And estimates on spending power prevent adoption of any idea over night deterioration is to be feared . . . While conditions are short of the "good" year 1937 they are decidedly better than those prevailing during 1938 . . . And promise to remain so . . .

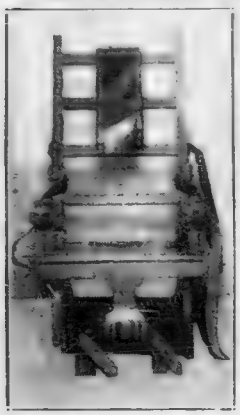
GOVERNOR SALTONSTALL'S recommendation of reprieves for two Somerville young men because the death chair is unsightly is the persistent and fruitless attempts to end executions by electricity in Massachusetts.

Almost from the hour Lizzie Borden was "burned" in Charlestown in December 17, 1891, the agitation has continued.

More than a score of bills seeking to make life imprisonment the supreme penalty for murder have been filed on Beacon Hill.

Hundreds of prominent men and women, including the late Clarence Darrow, Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing Prison, Alice Stone Blackwell, Dr. Van Allen, Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, Professor Zachariah Chafee, Jr., and Dr. A. Warren Stearns, have supported the humanitarian effort.

But the chair remains, grim and forbidding as ever. And, ironically, what seems to worry legislators most today is the difficulty of devising money to replace it with a newer and more effective device.



THE DEATH CHAIR
Does It Kill Painless

How there came to be such a thing as "electrocution" as a substitute for the older method of hanging. The story began 53 years ago, when pioneer dynamo and transformer manufacturers were disputing the relative merits of their products.

To popularize the might and magic of the "juice that ran through wires and became many things," they hired lecturers "to educate the public." One golden-tongued orator, more daring than his fellows, reached Albany, the New York capital, and boasted:

"Death by electrical current is swift, certain and painless. The victim feels nothing."

He proceeded to prove this by killing two stray cats and a dog. That was enough. A few days later a law-maker who had been in the lecturer's audience arose in the General Assembly and proposed substitution of an "electric chair" for the "painful, often-bungled death by strangulation."

His associates concurred, and on June 4, 1888, Governor David B. Hill signed the bill that made electricity a legal means of killing convicted criminals.

A short time later Massachusetts borrowed the plan and set up the unique piece of "furniture" which is now declared unfit for use.

DEATH VALLEY SCOTTY once more makes the front pages. As Miss Dorothy Drew, formerly of Boston, and Joseph Choate of Los Angeles, plight their troth in his magnificent "dream palace" built in the heart of the California desert, millions recall the career of the mysterious "Cowboy Croesus."

Is he really a multi-millionaire? Or is he a penniless fraud?

Since June 22, 1905, when he dropped into a Los Angeles saloon, dropped $500 bills on the bar and scattered 15-cent cigars all over the room, these questions have been asked.

DEATH VALLEY SCOTTY

Once he chartered a special train to make a trip from Los Angeles to Chicago at a cost of $5500. As far back as 1906 he was paying $100 for red neckties. Twenty years later he was promising to reveal "a ton of gold, silver and platinum that would startle the world with its richness." And less than ten years ago the Associated Press quoted him as saying: "Thar ain't no gold mine and thar never was."

But the belief persists that there is a mine with a fabulous supply of the precious yellow metal somewhere near his desert castle. Plenty of gold has come from this general area. In the Sylvania Mountains more than $6,500,000 has been produced. The Silver Peak country, 15 miles to the North, has yielded $4,500,000. And at least $250,000,000 has been mined in the mountains 20 miles East.

Meanwhile, Scotty reigns as a monarch in his domain, where the temperature sometimes reaches 140 degrees Fahrenheit, and slyly volunteers the information that he has spent nearly $9,000,000 and is still holding out for "the big show."

RETURNS are already coming in from the conditioning experiment in which this sentence started giving the psychological works to the baby, John Woods and he has a brother, Jim, just exactly alike, under environment schooling and parental tearing. The experiment is being conducted by the Normal Child Development Clinic of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center.

As the twins celebrate their seventh birthday, the first round goes to the old-time education. Jim rates a "B" on his report card and thinks school is sweet. John says he hates school because it interferes with more important matters, playing ball and drawing pictures.

This seems to be about the only observable difference to date. They are a pair of normally adventurous, combative and rowdy youngsters, with a dash of mischief and an eye for the main chance when it comes to grabbing off any little dividend ahead of the other chap.

I HAVE already seen two or three somewhat owlish pieces about sundry deep significations of all this. The educational old guard sees here another demonstration of the foolishness of progressive education. There you have it! John doesn't want to do anything but play ball. He will always be resistant to education.

The conditioners reply that this doesn't mean anything, that his greater freedom in discovering and gratifying his normal instincts has made him a more open and honest lad and he isn't afraid to say what he likes. Jim, normally reared, knows he ought to like a book, and dutifully says he does, whether he really likes it or not.

TWIN JIM WOOD
What Does Science Prove?

A FEW YEARS AGO, the child development clinic of the University of California conducted an interesting experiment. They lined up a random batch of kids, of mixed backgrounds, gave each a fistful of pennies and told him to buy something, start swapping or selling and report results in two weeks.

Some were broke, when the deadline came. Some were about even, and one lad who had been rated a sort of sub-dummy in the Binet-Simon tests had run his holdings almost into a house and lot.

The University psychologists fanned up an imposing, erudite report of this experiment. Any parent of a sizeable batch of youngsters could have told them in advance just how it works out.

Deeply implanted are the variables of ability interests, tastes and capacity even in children of the same parentage and rearing. Johnny and Jim Woods probably will prove it all over again.

SAMSON, the Goose, is not such a goose.

He is one of the stars of Jimbo's Circus, now playing with the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey circus at the Garden.

Samson knows his act in the circus ring, as well as Paul Wenzel and Alvin Jimbo, the clowns who own him, but he's no show-off when it comes to the big top. He's a shy soul who sneaks and hugs "cover" on his entrance.

A very independent bird, he spends his inside dressing room hours with the door closed in protection to best meet his disposal.

There are all sorts of animals and fowls assisting the clowns in their lavish acts and although temperament isn't encouraged among the performers, the dumb creatures are exempt.

Samson's only fault is that he doesn't like water. Unlike most geese, he won't even venture outside when it rains.

A GOOSE THAT DOESN'T LIKE WATER
Paul Wenzel and Samson are Pals and Circus Co-Stars

BOSTON LADIES who love original styles and that individual touch will be happily surprised with the opening of a fashion House in the Back Bay. The "couturier salon" will cater to fashionables and design clothes not only to compliment the figure but also to harmonize with milady's coloring.

The unusual new service will launch its enterprise by dressing a debutante. She'll make her appearance in an imported striped Rodier sports outfit, and matching chapeau. The costume decoration will feature the childhood whimsy, "tic-tac-toe."

THREE YEARS AGO, Captain R. A. Clarke, master of the Canadian National liner Lady Drake, tossed a bottle overboard near Bermuda, during a cruise between Boston and the West Indies.

The other day the bottle was recovered, with its message still securely sealed within, on the westerly coast of France. It had drifted 3800 miles in the 30 months afloat.

by GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, May 4. In considering the President's request that the Bureau of the Budget be transferred from the Treasury directly to the White House, Congress should take into account precisely what Mr. Roosevelt has done to the budget of this country during the past six years.

We have witnessed, under his administrations, the blasting of every hope that was entertained in Congress, and by the people, when the budget system was established in 1921.

The theory was that by placing a new Bureau of the Budget in the Treasury, with the President exercising a supervisory control over the public estimates, vast economies in government could be looked for with confidence.

That was the hope! What of the reality? Instead of economy, under Mr. Roosevelt, greatest spender in history because he has been the head of the richest nation the world has ever known, expenditures have increased to an extent which bewilders the imagination.

LOOKING BACK to 1921, when the great budget reform was enacted, and a single appropriations committee created in the House of Representatives through consolidation of the scattering appropriating powers there, it is astonishing that the statesmen of that day should have been alarmed. Yet they were! What would they say today?

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT
"History's Greatest Spender"

The expenditures of government in 1921 seem today as belonging to another world.

In Theodore Roosevelt's last year in office the total revenues of the government amounted to $856,000,000.

The World War made America realize what debt really was. But even so that debt had been reduced to $16,000,000,000 by the time President Franklin D. Roosevelt came into office. Today it is above $40,000,000,000. And going up!

Today the annual interest on the national debt is $1,050,000,000, or nearly $200,000,000 more annually than the total revenues of the government when T. R. was President.

THE FIRST DUTY of Congress is to put the brakes on public spending.

A salutary reform would be to PUT THE DIRECTOR OF THE BUDGET DIRECTLY UNDER CONGRESS. Then economy might get somewhere.

What possible justification can there be for placing the budget under the White House? The President's power over it already is broad and ample. Its success depends upon the President. Also its failure.

DISCOVERY: William Saroyan was awarded the O. Henry Prize because of his short story "The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze." Doubleday, Doran, the publisher, sent the author his Certificate of Award, together with the $100 prize, which went with it. Saroyan returned the $100, explaining: "When I started writing, I could have used five bucks, but nobody would stake me for it. I don't need the money now. So use it to encourage a promising young author who may be in the spot I was in when I first started" . . . Doubleday, Doran then notified Saroyan that they had discovered a new writer and the first installment of the $100 had been sent to him. Nothing ever was heard of that young writer again. The publishers learned that the author was in jail at the time. His promising career was cut short when he was electrocuted for murder.

IF THE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE investigating the administration of government relief happens to have an investigator in the Boston territory this week-end, [illegible] he'll find that more evidence of the socialist party's participation in relief projects and its utter disregard of the Communist Party. But it will find witnesses to the participation of the socialist and Communist party who are ready to swear that pressure was brought on them to join the Communist Party. And that active recruiting for the Spanish Loyalist cause was carried on right here in Boston, and with some real success, while Uncle Sam was making the recruiting possible by keeping the applicants busy on their monthly paychecks as members of the writers' project.

RHODE ISLAND will adopt a measure similar to the Briggs Law, [illegible] because it was fathered by Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, the psychiatrist. This was indicated after William H. Sharten, the Boston attorney, prevailed upon a Rhode Island court to appoint a commission of five alienists to examine one Ceccare Mercadante, who was being tried for homicide. . . The commission unanimously adjudged the man insane.

Joe Cook will imitate four Hawaiians and oblige with other items in his repertoire of genial patter as part of the entertainment scheduled for the benefit of German refugees to be held a week from Sunday at the Shubert Theater. Master Cook and Charles Van, the pantomimist, who was in charge of the show's entertainment program, are names of long standing. The benefit will be held under the auspices of Ames Lodge, I.O.B.B.

LISTEN, WORLD! —:— —:— By Elsie Robinson

SOMEONE, in recent days, has given me a little figure of Mary. Such a crude bit of pottery you might wonder why it has such power. The fingers of the one who fashioned it, some unknown peasant, knew little of the complicated business we call Art.

To mold something that would mean love, something that would show the comfort and joy and helpfulness that lay in love, even a poor peasant; to mold it in the form of that Gentle Lady who was poor, like himself, yet through her love walked free in every heart—that was what he wished to do. And only his own heart could tell him how.

SO HE WENT about it in his own way, using the simple methods and materials that were natural to him. Kneeling there in the dim, green cavern of some old fig tree's shade, with his sweat-stained mattock lying forgotten in the hot, still fields, he fashioned the small figure clumsily, patiently, from the common clay and burned the clay to hardness in the small brick oven he had built himself.

Then, with crude colors ground from that same soil, he gave her such crude beauty as he could. Some small, blue flowers in her rough, white robe, a touch of gold about the baby's head, a flare of gold above her crossing face.

Now I hold the thing he made, so crudely modeled you can hardly trace [illegible] Mary's face. Yet [illegible] comes such [illegible] tenderness that it is like the touch of kind, strong hands.

A bit of common clay warmed by a simple peasant's faith and love—[illegible] of mankind's passion in one hand—so great does [illegible] seem [illegible] as the world.

Love is the [illegible] No [illegible] can get [illegible] ready made [illegible] [illegible] by tenderness and [illegible] [illegible]

A PEASANT'S [illegible] [illegible] a tired mother [illegible] [illegible] looking to [illegible] a baby playing [illegible] [illegible] saving pennies from her [illegible] [illegible] buy a costume for the [illegible] she'll [illegible] [illegible] the eyes [illegible] stars above her shabby [illegible] [illegible] who [illegible] longed to go [illegible] [illegible] a factory bench so that [illegible] [illegible] He. Home and Kitchen

By MARTHA LEE

One of the reasons for the popularity of lamb is that it blends in flavor with such a variety of other foods. If lamb is your main dish you can plan any number of suitable menus about it.

Lamb enhances the flavor of delicately flavored vegetables such as green peas, creamed potatoes, boiled onions, asparagus, broccoli and so on. And you have not even meager kinds of vegetables to draw upon but you can follow the modern fashion of serving fruit with meat. You can mingle out color harmonies as well as fine combinations of flavor.

One of the prettiest as well as most delicious of lamb chop combinations is pictured today. It is simple and easy to arrange and it is very effective.

Here's one spring dinner suggestion that should delight family and guests as well. And the best part of the whole plan is that it is easily prepared.

SPRING DINNER MENU
Crabmeat Cocktail
Broiled Lamb Chops with Peach Halves
Creamed New Potatoes
Buttered Asparagus
Corn Muffins Butter
Spring Bowl Salad
Individual Strawberry Shortcake
Coffee

Loin lamb chops are tender, substantial cuts. They contain a small T-shaped bone and portions of two muscles. The chops can be formed into compact rounds. Rib chops or chops cut from the loin by might be used in the same way. Broil grill Rib chops with frills placed on the bone ends, make a very pretty appearance. Shoulder chops may also be used. Lamb breast chops, called Saratoga chops are a good selection.

Whatever kind of chops you select have them cut thick enough so that they will broil to a good advantage. They should be from ¾ to one inch or more in thickness.

Place the chops on a rack in the pre-heated broiler oven. Allow a short distance between the surface of the chops and the source of the heat so that the meat is cooked halfway through by the time the surface is nicely browned. With the regulator turned high this distance should be about three inches. If the distance must be less reduce the heat so that the chops won't brown too quickly.

When one side of the chops is done season with salt and pepper and turn. Brown them and finish the cooking on the second side. Remove from the oven and season with salt and pepper.

SPRING LAMB SHOULDER

The center cut of the shoulder is the part which deserves special attention. It makes a very attractive roast which is tender and very flavorful and with the bone carved it is easily carved and served. It may be broiled and is fine if it may be left ready for you to stuffing.

The shoulder chop is cut from the shoulder and contains the same muscles as other roast. It is broiled on a rack in an open broiler or pan and cooked uncovered in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until done. A roast which is boned is generally a little more expensive per pound than does a roast which has the bone in place. So for a boned lamb shoulder, allow forty to forty-five minutes per pound for roasting.

The stuffing used for a lamb shoulder may be one of any number of kinds, and if you are looking for variety with roasts, here is a splendid way to obtain it merely by using a different stuffing. For instance how about a pineapple stuffing?

PINEAPPLE STUFFING WITH LAMB SHOULDER
2 cups bread crumbs
1 small can crushed pineapple

HERE'S a meal to banish spring fever! Lamb chops are served with peach halves. In the center of each peach half is placed a marshmallow toasted to a golden brown. The peaches are placed in the broiler during the cooking of the meat to heat them thoroughly and to melt the marshmallows properly. Mint leaves are used for an added touch of color and flavor. Creamed new potatoes are part of the meal.

2 tablespoons minced onion.
2 tablespoons melted butter
Salt and pepper

Brown the onion in melted butter until tender. Add bread crumbs and brown slightly, then add salt and pepper and drained pineapple. Fill cavity in lamb shoulder with the stuffing and sew or skewer the edges together. Roast as described below.

Your Taste Reveals Itself

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEEKMAN

Every time I go to a wedding in which the attendants are "paired off" I wonder why in the world ladies persist in planning the procession in this way.

This is never done in the correctly planned recessional, and the pairing off of maid of honor with best man, bridesmaids with ushers gives too much the appearance of a musical comedy sextette. Because I feel that this arrangement doesn't adhere to the traditional idea of the attendants, which is that the bridesmaids shall be grouped together and the grooms attendants shall be grouped together.

In the brief walk of the bridal procession in the recessional from the altar, the dramatic high light should be on the bride and bridegroom, who should be the only "couple" in the recessional. I even have the maid of honor walk with the best man gives much the effect of a double wedding. I'm all for having the bride and bridegroom have all the spotlight in the recessional. It is their day!

Camilla

by Anne Stretton
who wrote 'PROPOSAL'

Who's Who and What's Happened:

CAMILLA and MARK might have come into a fine inheritance if their father, a famous but eccentric writer, had married their mother. When he died, he left no provision for his children, but a life interest in the house to

GLADYS, who had no maternal affection at all for Camilla and Mark. And he willed the lands of Dore to

SIMON, a cousin. Simon managed the estate efficiently, and was like a brother to Camilla and Mark. Although his fiancee,

EVELYN disapproved, on Mark's sixteenth birthday, Simon gave Dore to him. After Simon and Evelyn were married, Mark went away to school and Camilla met

STEPHEN FULLER, who was staying with friends near Dore. Learning of their engagement, Simon sent Camilla to live with an elderly woman in town. Then Stephen persuaded her to elope with him. In her new home Camilla tried nervously to talk to her guests, friends of Stephen. She was especially awed by

OLIVIA, who was writing a play . . . At a dance Simon discovered his wife letting another man kiss her. Returning home from this dance Mark asked Camilla what Stephen could find to do at this hour.

MET'S 'UNION PACIFIC' ABOUNDS IN THRILLS PLUS ACTION

Ripsnorting Railroad Classic

By PEGGY DOYLE

It isn't necessary to be anything like as choo-choo conscious as Lucius Beebe to find Cecil B. (the B is silent as in epic) De Mille's ripsnorting railroad classic, "Union Pacific," a rousing experience.

Guaranteed to step up the blood pressure of the most armchair blood adventurer, "Union Pacific" indubitably will do as much for the Metropolitan Theater box-office records.

Cinema throwback to the gaudy and challenging days of the 60s, this latest DeMille-Paramount release is history minus yawns and plus action. All of which adds up to 140 minutes of unreeling, but you'll find yourself taking it as easily as next Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

Joel McCrea, in one of those strong, silent "Buccaneer" roles, and Barbara Stanwyck, sitting an Irish accent that is pure Hollywood, are its mainstays.

They have magnificent assistance from a splendid supporting cast notably from Lynn Overman and Akim Tamiroff, as irresistible a pair of villains as ever armed a rail road for mayhem. Particularly Overman, who already has played every role on the screen but a mariner, portrays a handlebar mustachioed so convincingly that you'll completely forget his erstwhile city-slicker passageways.

Tamiroff's tough Mexican rail road cop is another sheer delight.

Appointed by his bodyguards by the road, these two see McCrea trouble-shooter sent out by Washington to keep law and order in the railroad towns, safely through the seven years of the building of the transcontinental railroad. A wedding band of iron these early orators called this union of the East and West.

Menacing this wild pioneer dream of joining the Atlantic at the Pacific coasts were Brian Donlevy, gambling-hall operator, and Henry Kolker, Chicago financier bent on sabotaging the railroad and selling the stock short.

How Donlevy, hired by Kolker managed to delay and all but prevent the work by hikkering up the workers and by stirring up the Indians against the railway-builders is a nicely executed chunk of villainy.

There is also Miss Stanwyck's heroic moment when she gives it to the handsome hero. McCrea, for the equally handsome baddie Robert Preston (a Newton boy) to save the former's life at the latter's hands.

It was easier than slipped to have dangerously in these days it is crystal-clear, and DeMille's hair-trigger direction acutely stresses this American way of living in the 60s with straight action. There's nothing to steal this DeMille epic the title notwithstanding.

Sport Thoughts While Air Strolling

"NEWS . . . HEADLINES," THE BIG, nickeled transport plane seemed to drone as it rose from Newark's weedy patches and levelled westward in the rose glow of evening. Clouds, like large clots of cream, drifted past our wings, swirling in the backdraft of the propellers. Early beacons blinked on the horizon. A stewardess, a perky girl in slate gray, handed round late afternoon editions, offered gum-sticks as aids to air-nausea and cotton pellets to lessen the wear on the ears. Underneath passed the carnival lights of the World's Fair, a multicolored postage stamp patterned like a child's picture-puzzle.

AUSTEN LAKE

A wasp-waisted mail plane scudded by. "No rain, nor sleet, nor hail shall keep them from their appointed rounds"—well, the post-office slogan went something like that! It was bumpy over Manhattan and a male passenger, his complexion salad green, stumbled back to the lavatory, the perky stewardess taking his elbow solicitously. But she grinned behind his back.

The big football crater of Columbia University looked like a concrete cake pan from 5000 feet. Remember the Syracuse kid who had split his lip there—a clean-cut cleft from teeth to chin which welled in an open V. And how they had sewed him up with fiddle gut and sent him back with a bolster bandage on his mouth! Yeh . . .

Black Helen Best Filly Ever to Run, Says Don Meade

This is the fifth article in Don Meade's sensational story of his career as a jockey. Meade tells of his experiences riding for Col Bradley, and reveals he once took money from a bookmaker at Iron Mountain, etc.

By DON MEADE
(As told to Dave Wilson and Jack Conway)

It was a brilliant racing stable that Col. Bradley had in 1935.

Balladier, Bob Thorne, Bit Of Sorrow, Beanie M. and Black Helen carried the Bradley colors to victory in numerous races.

I shall always consider Black Helen the greatest filly to ever start in a race.

Black Helen won the Coaching Club stakes and American Oaks, the American Derby, Maryland Handicap and Florida Derby.

While riding for Colonel Bradley, I also competed on races at Saratoga. I have always felt that Saratoga offers the most splendid race setting in the world. It is rich in racing tradition.

LIKES SARATOGA

I would rather be at Saratoga during a race meeting than any place else. Everybody of note in racing seems to appear at Saratoga when the thoroughbreds are in action.

The horses are saddled while under the trees at Saratoga. Entries called to the racing sheet are applauded by the crowd.

I had got married in 1934. I met the present Mrs. Meade on the sands at Miami Beach. It was love at first sight and we have been very happy.

There was romance in the air as I gained success. I introduced my sister, Louise, to Johnny Gilbert, the jockey, and they later were married.

It was my happy privilege while making big money with Shaw to help many race track friends financially.

There is an old saying about the track that money isn't worth anything. This is because it is spent. It one way or another. I was glad I was in a position to help my friends and also have enough money left over to assist less fortunate persons than myself.

People associated with racing are the most generous in the world. That is probably why few of them have much money. If a person is fortunate in making money at the track, he usually divides his earnings with a dozen friends who are [illegible]

Dartmouth-Harvard In Track Meet ¦ Pole Vault Will Furnish Thrills

THE YOUNG MEN who figure out winners of college track events insist that George Bailey and Dan Dyer of Dartmouth will finish one-two in the pole vault at the Harvard-Dartmouth track meet in the Stadium on Saturday afternoon. It will not be unusual for Dartmouth to send crack pole vaulters to the Stadium. There is something in the air at Hanover, N. H. Bill Grimes tells me that produces brilliant pole vaulters.

Personally I would rather watch

Jim Bagby Goes After Opener In Detroit

Foxx, Vosmik Hit Harshly Behind Auker

DETROIT, May 4—Boston's Red Sox converged on this Automobile City today where they open a three-game series this afternoon with the Tigers.

Jim Bagby

The Hose follow in here after the Yankees who came raging back to winning form with two impressive victories over the Tigers in as many days.

But the Yawkeymen look no less formidable. They're off to the finest road trip start in many seasons with three straight wins since their departure from the Bay State last week.

Today they're only a half game behind the league leading Yankees and with Junior Jim Bagby slated to hurl the Detroit opener, they're confident that they'll hang up a fourth win before night's shadows fade into darkness.

The Boston clan was no little bit encouraged by the fine pitching of Elden Auker, submarine hurler, who went the distance for the first time this season and turned in an excellent performance.

Auker, who has been his usual slow self in breaking into the victory column, limited the Indians to five hits and walked five in his 5-to-1 triumph, No. 1 of his career as a Red Stocking.

SOX HIT WELL

The former Detroit slab artist was nobly aided by his hitting teammates, who came to life with a vengeance, blasting out 14 goodly blows, inclusive of four out of five by Joe Vosmik and three out of four, including a pair of doubles, for Jimmy Foxx.

Foxx, incidentally, leaped into command of the American League batting forces with an average of .412, his best early season record in many long seasons, and particularly pleasing in view of his recent cold, which found him far from normal as he left his native shores.

Manager Joe Cronin was unable to take his place in the shortstop position yesterday.

Marse Joe took in the Wednesday issue, but as a dugout spectator and in street clothes, rather than in the flannel of a seasoned campaigner.

CRONIN ILL

The grippe had Manager Joe down, and it may still have him down again this afternoon. He won't make up his mind on whether or not to play until just before game time.

In the meanwhile, Tom Carey, former of Coast residence, filled in capably for his boss-man, and will need no great amount of urging to go back again today should Cronin decide against playing.

THREE YEARS AGO—Joe DiMaggio, $75,000 recruit, got three hits, including triple, as he made debut in left field.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion, lost 10-round decision to Walter Neusel, German heavyweight, at Madison Square Garden.

B. U. Race Off

The crew race between Boston University and Williams College, scheduled to take place on the Charles river Saturday, has been cancelled.

Due to a late start because of weather, the Williams crew is not ready for competition and requested that the race be dropped. No date has been set for a future meeting.

Hollywood Stars Show at Arena

Boys are better than girls in all departments of professional roller skate racing, but the girls are not far behind in blocking ability.

This comparison has been made by Jeanne Goette, member of Eleanor Powell's Hollywood Stars who will race against the Boston White Shirts when the Roller Derby opens at the Boston Arena next Monday night. The Roller Derby will continue for 21 nights, racing being from 8 until 11 o'clock.

"The girls cannot skate as fast as the boys," says Jeanne, "and while they cannot block with the same power, they have the agility and the footwork to slip in ahead of the boys and give them a good battle in the important blocking department of the race."

There are five boys and five girls on each team.

Recreational Leaders Hit 'Sex in Sports'

NEW YORK, May 4 (INS)—Sex is getting into feminine sports and, as a result, leaders in women's sports and recreation were up in arms today.

Commercial establishments are sponsoring various girls' athletic teams not so much for their athletic prowess as their feminine allure in abbreviated sports costumes, the women's division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation was informed.

Still another evil was seen in the extensive traveling about by unchaperoned girls' sports teams which are indulging in cocktail and pajama parties, according to one speaker at the meeting.

"It is a case of putting sex into sports, and this is the last thing that physical educators want," said Ann Hodgkins, chairman of the executive committee.

"We have got to get away from the Amazon type of woman whose feminine charms are played in commercial sports above sportsmanship and often times her ability," added Ethel Bowers, field secretary of the National Recreation Association.

"We have got to get away from the Folies Bergere game and the musical comedy spectacle for 5000 spectators on a spotlighted baseball field.

"We have got to get away from the amazon type of woman athlete whose only aim to to put on a good show."

Dr. John Brown of the Y. M. C. A. national council charged the exploitation of girls and their charms in commercial sports was merely a "racket."

Sing Sing to Help Semi-Pro Day

OSSINING, N. Y., May 4 (AP)—Sing Sing prison will join in the celebration of national semi-pro baseball day on Sunday, when the prison nine meets Sacred Heart of Stamford, Ct., and Warden Lewis E. Lawes serves up the first pitch.

Lawes is scheduled to wind up and let fly at 4 p. m. Simultaneously, thousands of lead-off hitters throughout the country will be stepping up to the plate in the biggest mass play program in the game's history. George Sisler, the semi-pros' high commissioner, will be throwing out the first ball for the all-star game at Wichita, Kas., and a flag will be raised in the Court of Sports at the New York World's Fair.

Detroit Has $4,000,000 for Olympics in '44

NEW YORK, May 4 (INS)—A comfy little nest-egg of $4,000,000 (dollars, not soy beans) has been orally set aside by Detroit's great industries to validate a bid for the 1944 Olympics, and if you think that sum represents bidding you can't play in my league. Detroit is putting on big-business-style pressure, and for a city that started with two strikes on it in the form of a prior claim by London, it is doing remarkably well.

The International Olympic Committee will meet at London from June 6 to 10 and vote an assignment of the 1944 games. Thirteen countries have applied. Most of them are little. Switzerland is one. But when the poll is taken, it will be found that London and Detroit are running neck-and-neck, with Rome practically forgotten on the first ballot.

M'Kechnie Rates Mize, Lombardi Above Medwick

By the Associated Press

El Galento is boxing only two-minute rounds on his Western junket, if that means anything to you. . . . Railbirds at Louisville vote Johnny Dupuy, the Orleans jock, the standout rider at the Downs so far, and Ben Jones (who handles Technician) the No. 1 trainer.

Don't be surprised if Jack Roper (who rigged instead of zagged) starts comeback No. 84 on the Louis - Galento supporting card.

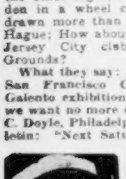
Johnny Mize

In Bill McKechnie's book, the two best hitters in the National League are Johnny Mize of the Cardinals and Ernie Lombardi of the Reds.

Art Cohn, Oakland Tribune: "The moral codes at Harvard and Yale are startlingly different . . . Yale sells broadcasting rights to football games, but won't accept whisky ads in the programs . . . Harvard takes whisky ads, but won't sell broadcasting rights . . . On the Pacific Coast, however, everyone takes everything, not excluding red-hot stoves."

MAIL BOX: Bobby Riggs, Alice Marble says you are America's Davis Cup hope . . . Max Baer, Commissioner Bill Brown, who has called you many a bum in his day, now admits you have changed—for the better . . . Frank McCormick, Your boss says if you were a flash in the pan last year he'd like to have a carload of 'em . . . Bill Tilden: When Fred Perry looked over the Perry-Budge house at Buffalo the other night, he said: "Bill Tilden in a wheel chair would have drawn more than this" . . . Mayor Hague: How about borrowing your Jersey City club for the Polo Grounds?

What they say: Harry B. Smith, San Francisco Chronicle: "The Galento exhibition was a joke, and we want no more of them" . . . Lyn C. Doyle, Philadelphia evening Bulletin: "Next Saturday the Derby, but, after a week-end of Long John Woodruff, it's hard to get excited about anything as slow as the Derby" . . . James C. Doyle, Cleveland Plain-Dealer: "Louisville, Ky., will be Johnstown, Ky., Saturday unless things should get muddled up—with the accent on the mud" . . . Dizzy Dean: "Seems I have saw my best days."



Al Schacht

Just as Dolph Camilli, Dodger first sacker, was about to catch a foul pop (which would have retired the side), an intrepid Brooklyn fan reached out and speared the spheroid.

Short sota: Helen Jacobs sailed for the French and Wimbledon championships. . . What Columbia does in football this year depends entirely on the sophomores . . . Al Schacht has a touch of the flu from clowning in the rain, but will start his southern swing May 9, as scheduled.

Priest Enters Tri-City Show

The Irish-American A. A. will present its final amateur boxing meeting of the season at the Arena next Monday with a big intercity show. Teams from Philadelphia and Albany will clash with the "pick" of the New England simonpure ranks in this big windup.

Contests will be staged in six classes—118, 126, 147, 160, 175 and heavyweights.

There will be four entrants in each weight—one each from the two visiting cities and two boys representing Boston.

Tom Kanaly today announced the entries for the welterweight and heavyweight classes.

In the former Al "Red" Priest, the 20-year-old Cambridge metal worker and 1939 N. E. A.A.U. champion as well as New England All-American titleholder, and Tony Piacente of Providence, R. I., Diamond Ring champion, will meet up with Cory Scarace of Rome, N. Y., and who recently won the National A.A.U. title in San Francisco, and Fred Ketel of Philadelphia, the Middle Atlantic A.A.U. crowned head.

The heavyweight class should be a wow. Tony Ferry, New England and Eastern All-American champion and winner of the Diamond Ring last Monday night, and Herbert Coonan of Rochdale, the 1939 New England champion, will swing for dear old Boston against Charlie Ketcheck of Albany and Coleman Raines of Philadelphia.

Conn. to Veto Mutuel Bill

HARTFORD, Conn., May 4 (INS)—Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin will veto the bill providing for pari-mutuel betting on horse and dog racing in Connecticut if it passes the Legislature, it was learned today from an unimpeachable source.

It was reported the governor felt the measure would do more harm to business than the return in the form of tax revenue to the state was worth.

A possibility that the racing bill might pass the Legislature appeared today with its approval by the finance committee by a 10 to 6 vote.

Meade Up Saturday On Early Delivery

PAWTUCKET, R. I., May 4 (AP)—Mrs. E. Graham Lewis' Pagliacci, chestnut son of Caruso-Caricature, will start in the $5000 added Bristol Handicap, feature of Saturday's program.

This was made certain today by receipt of word from Trainer Louis Feustel, the man who conditioned Man o' War, that he was shipping the colt here for the race.

Winner of two sprints in Bowie this spring, and second to Johnstown in the Paumonok Handicap at Jamaica, April 15, Pagliacci looms as a real threat in this stake.

Steward Sam Nuckols, now presiding in the stand at Gansett, will miss the running of the Kentucky Derby on Saturday, the fourth time he has been absent from the Blue Grass classic.

Sam has been in the stewards' stand at Churchill Downs for 16 Derbies, missing three because of illness. This year he informed Colonel Matt Winn that he had decided to stay on the job here.

Three candidates for the $5000 added Bristol Handicap to be run here Saturday worked out yesterday. Blind Eagle breezed six furlongs in 1:17; Higher Cloud worked the same distance in 1:16 1-5, and Pit Terrier, well in hand, worked a half mile in :52 2-5 and three-quarters in 1:20 2-5.

* * *

Don Meade will return to 'Gansett to ride Early Delivery for George Odom in the Bristol Handicap Saturday. He will remain here for the final week of the spring meeting and has made plans to ride here during the summer meeting, which starts August 14.

* * *

Harry Krovitz has been engaged to ride Sheldon Fairbanks' U-Boat in the handicap.

Ben Lister returned to 'Ganeett after a visit to his Kentucky Farm, where he looked over some of his yearlings.

* * *

Mrs. M. H. Charles has taken over the contract of Jockey Johnny Mearle, Chester, Idaho youngster.

Mrs. Danny Shea has sold the five-year-old filly, Fair Scout, to Trainer Page Stephenson at private sale.

phorescent pools were farther apart now. Buffalo with its sprawling spider web of streets and the moonlit shimmer on Lake Erie. Bill Grimes, the hockey author, and I had waited there interminably for the Toronto train during the last Stanley Cup playoffs. The rancid gusts of the stockyards and the soft coal stench from the Lackawanna Steel plant. Phooie! I'd worked there once as third helper in the open hearth.

"News . . . headlines" droned the motors. The stewardess passed lily cups filled with beef broth. The New York passenger grabbed his out in Cleveland? Wonder how old pickle-puss Grove's arm is acting?

A splatter of rain fell against the windows and the pilot gunned above the ceiling where the clouds looked like soap-suds.

THE STEWARDESS PASSED DOWN the lurching aisle fixing safety belts, snapping the clasps with deft wrist. Her scent was like the shingles we had whittled in early boyhood. The ground, vague and treacherous, came up to meet us and the big balloons on the undercarriage bumped along a concrete apron. The nickeled bird, its aerial grace gone on the ground, trundled to a stop.

"Detroit" said the stewardess. The fresh air smelt sour. A Negro porter, almost undistinguishable in the gloom, took our bags. The travellers rose stiffly and ducked down the rolling gangway. "Detroit . . . news . . . headlines" droned the dying snort of the motors. Yeh . . .

The Grand Stand Manager

"THE GRANDSTAND MANAGER" has made a strong appeal to the baseball fans who are bombarding this pillar with their opinions of diamond matters. Everybody is invited to write to this new column, and give their own ideas of plays and other baseball matters.

It is natural that the Bees should still be one of the most discussed topics in the letters received from the fans. The splendid showing of Casey Stengel's club has made a wide appeal.

Address your letters to "The Grandstand Manager," Boston Evening American, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

Likes New Column

CONGRATULATIONS on new sports column, "The Grandstand Manager." The fans have waited for many years for such an opportunity to express their views, and the Boston Evening American has given it to them.

All the praise in the world goes to the Bees. The team is really hot. Good pitching and that much-needed batting punch have been the large factors in contributing to the success of the club.

Just a word to Joe Clancy, Dorchester's gift to Boston baseball. That crack you made about Casey Stengel asking Bill Terry is his club still in the league sure gave me a kick. The way the Bees are going now is it any wonder that any club is left in the league.

LENNIE LERNER,
No. 113 Crawford st., Roxbury.

Bees for Pennant

I AM A strong Bees fan, and think the club has the best chance of any of the teams in the National League of winning the pennant. My reasons for saying this are as follows:

1—The Bees have in Fletcher, Cuccinello, Miller and Garms (and Debs has improved) the best defensive infield in the league. How can you get a ball through them?

2—The club has the additional hitting strength furnished by Hassett, Simmons and Miller.

3—Add to this the best pitching staff in the league and the best catcher in the league in the person of Al Lopez. How can they miss, barring injuries?

MALCOLM GILLIS,

Okays Jimmy Foxx

EVERYBODY IS saying that Jimmy Foxx's sinus is back and that the home run star won't have a good year. Bunk! Bunk! Bunk! He's just as good as he was last year, and even better.

It was most refreshing to see him come up to the plate in the eleventh inning of the Washington-Red Sox series and hit the ball right out of the park. We, the people of Boston, salute you Jimmy as one of the game's greatest first basemen.

LEO STONE,
No. 86 Fayston street, Roxbury.

Asks Jimmy Foxx Day!

JIMMY FOXX Day! Ball players are given days so that fans can show their appreciation. Let us give a Jimmy Foxx Day to the man who gives the fans more thrills and pennant hopes than any other player.

His record as a great team player is as well known as his batting. It takes a real man to give the kind of performance he has been turning in while suffering from sinus trouble.

The whole sports world acknowledge Foxx's ability last year. What is wrong with Boston which benefits most from his playing? Come on, fans, and show Jimmy Foxx what you think of him.

Posedel, Take a Bow!

THE GAME that Bill Posedel pitched against the Giants was swell. I think Casey Stengel should keep Posedel as a relief pitcher. He could win many games for the Bees in this way.

A POSEDEL BOOSTER.

IN TUESDAY'S game between the Bees and Cardinals, it is too tad the loss cannot be given to Elbie Fletcher for his "boner" in playing a sacrifice bunt in the ninth inning to second in a try to get Gutteridge instead of playing safe and retiring the batter at first.

Stengel erred in judgment also in the ninth inning in putting Buddy Hassett up to bunt Lopez to second. MacFayden should have been permitted to go to bat as he can bunt satisfactorily. Then Hassett could have been used to have knocked in Lopez. Hassett is a better bet than Hodgins.

Baseball Queries

Q—How did the Bees rate in club batting last year?

A—Last, with an average of .250. The Cardinals with a mark of .2789 headed the league. Pittsburgh was second with an average of .2788.

Q—What is Babe Ruth's income today?

A—According to good authority, Ruth receives $15,000 a year from annuities.

Yesterday's Heroes

RED SOX

Joe Vosmik with four hits in five trips against the Indians.

PITCHER

Eldon Auker, five-hit performance.

BEES

No game.

A point will be awarded each time a player is named in "Yesterday's Heroes," and the standing will be published each Monday. The regular players on the Bees and Sox and pitchers on both clubs who top ratings at end of season will each receive a handsome Gruen Precision Veri-Thin Moderne 17-jewel wrist watch.
